MORNING PAPER IN THE BISTRICT OF CO-THURSDAY MORNING :::: FEBRUARY II, 1875.

CAUCUS NOTICE.

A general caucus of the Republican members of both Houses of Congress will be held in the Hall of the House of Representatives at 7 o'clock to-night. The prompt attendance of members is especially requested, for the reason that business of the utmost importance will be submitted for consideration.

THE PERIL OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY THE PERIL OF THE COUNTRY.

The final adjournment of the Forty third Congress is so near at hand, and the certainty that a dead lock regarding purely political questions will occur in the Fortyfourth is so apparent, that a few earnest words of advice to the Republican members of the present body are deemed to be imperatively required. Particularly does this appear to be true when it is remembered that up to this time no definite action has been reached which will relieve the party of impending peril-a peril which is in reality the peril of the Government it-

It is useless to talk of what "might have been." We must grapple with the brief and fleeting present if we would protect ourselves against disaster in the future. It is wise, however, to allude to the past as a means of explaining the apparent demoralization of some of our should-be leaders at this important juncture, and we cannot recall that past without bringing up bitter memories of Credit Mobilier scan dals and Back Pay cowardice. We find that many of the men whose characters were smirched, or whose backs bear the marks of flagellation, as the result of the Credit Mobilier investigation and the Back Pay business, still occupy positions which should entitle them to recognition as the thoughtful managers of the party. We do not wish to be understood as indorsing those scandals even in the slightest degree, and our opinions regarding the salary grab are well known. But we insist that if some of our leaders had not been frightened by criticisms of the so-called Independent Press, based upon those scandals, they would now be able to stand up with more courage in support of party measures when those measures are opposed | Republican party of the North commitof sensational and reckless other words, Northern Republicans gave critics. In other words, they do not for. the slaves of the South the right to voteget the lash which was applied, justly or | made freemen of them-and then turned | upon to avoid, and these are the responsiunjustly, with such unsparing force upon | them loose to shift for themselves in a coun- | bilities which rest upon your shoulderstheir backs by irresponsible newspaper try populated by thousands and hundreds scribblers, whose unprincipled desire to attract attention blinded them to every sense of decency and justice. For example, Charles A. Dana, the editor of the New York Sua, a man who has willfully and maliciously fied about nearly every prominent man in the Republican party, a man who has debased a noble profession by using it as the medium to year his personal spites, and a man who is notoriously the associate of thieves, blacklegs, dealers in counterfeit money and discharged and dishonest detectives, is more of a power to frighten the timid, "burnt children" to whom we allude than they are willing to admit, or than their self-pride, if they have any, will justify. And Dana has a number of less capable followers, blackmailers of less force, who also make themselves felt, to the injury of party principles in which they have no interest, and for the defeat of which they earnestly work. Startling and apparently inconsistent as these facts may seem, it is nevertheless true that men who led the van in support of those measures which served to save the country during the war, who braved the dangers of the battle-field and endured the obloquy which followed from a loyal support of anti-slavery and Union principles, now falter, straggle from the ranks, and run away from duty like a drove of cowardly sheep whenever the asses in lion's skins, known as the editors of the Independent Press, appear in their midst or make the faintest attempt to imitate the growl of real lions. If they dared to stand up to the rack-"fodder or no fodder," as the Grangers would say-if they dared to kick one of these cowardly asses, or strip one of them of his borrowed skin, the people would applaud them and they would themselves feel relieved of a nightmare. But, no! They tamely submit, and some of them

litical opponents, and against the most holy and kindly entertainment at the hands of aspirations of the loyal men who sacrithese shame. Like our dogs, they lick the ficed so much on hundreds of battlehand that smote them. The result, as we have said, is an appafields to preserve the integrity of the Govrent demoralization among should-be leadernment. In pursuing this systematic war they have been guilty of assassination and ers at this important juncture when fearless murder in its most cruel forms. Their statesmanship and sturdy devotion to prinarmed batallions drill at night in the streets ciple are imperatively demanded. The of Southern cities. Their armed squadrons Cheap Transportation question suffers delay ride at night through the Southern country and is threatened with disaster as a consequence. Next year, when the farmers of roads. Their organizations are divided the West begin to burn corn as fuel again, into infantry, cavalry and artillery. In short, the Confederate armies which surthe excuse that aid to private transportation rendered to Grant and Sherman, and laid schemes or the development of internal improvements savored of jobbery will not be down their arms with solemn promises of sufficient to relieve those who are recreant future peaceful behavior, have suddenly reappeared, equipped with better arms than to duty from a criticism more just and more damaging in its consequences than that those they laid down, commanded by their old officers, and ready for any emergency from which they fly with abject terror that may arise. With a cruel mockery, now. With thousands and millions of dolborn of treachery and schooled in treason, lars worth of cereals rotting in the granaries, with cotton, tobacco, naval stores, and they claim to be loval to the National Govwith manufactured stuffs depreciated in ernment, and when its armed forces apvalue because greedy monopolists eat up pear, yield a deceitful submission. In this way they practically make war upon the the profits on them with extertionate freight tariff, and with a full knowledge of the Union within the Union, and deny that the cowardly manner in which their Representpower exists within the Union to suppress atives have knuckled down to the demands that war. In this way they override the of demagogues, the people will be in no will of the majority in those States where better humor next year than they were last they are completely organized. In this fall. Take the case of Representative Mcway they propose to give to the Democratic Crary, of Iowa, as an example. But we claim that Internal Improvement and Cheap Transportation are not the paramount questions of the hour. It is true, as we have explained, that a lack of atten tion to them underlies much of the politi-problems to be solved in the effort to main tain intact the cherished results of the vic tory over the slaveholders' attempt to destroy the Union. Occasionally, when some others, and more honestly devoted to principle, rises in his seat to speak of those results as in danger of being blotted out, the country thrills with a responsive throb of generous sympathy; and when some fearless officer, like Phil Sheridan, epitomizer the situation with a single word, there is a startling arising of the people that proves how near and how dear the pledges of the Government, made as the natural conse-uences of the war, are to the masses of our fellow-countrymen. But then some cur-lion rises, and, with the natural tones of a braying ass, cries "Bloody Shirt!" Forthwith the frightened and demoralized herd scatter and refuse to follow, not only the bold and honest leader, who has so successfully appealed to the sympathies of the people, but the honest dictates of their own consciences ones who will deny that the full force and effect of the Reconstruction Acts-laws passed by themselves or their more competent predecessors-are being constantly ignored. To instance our meaning: th act to admit the States of North Carolina.

South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Florida to representation in Congress provides "that the constitution of neither of said States shall ever be so amended or changed as to deprive any citizen or class of citizens of the United States of the right to vote in said State who are entitled to vote by the constitution thereof herein recognized, except as a punishment for such crimes as are now felonics at common law, whereof they shall have been duly convicted under laws equally applicable to all the inhabitants of said State." This was the pledge demanded by Congress of the Southern people before they were permitted to retake their places as political communities and State organizations in the Union which they had so treacherously attempted to destroy. We ask of these affrighted ones again, are the White Leagues of the South acting in good faith as regards this pledge? Are they not attempting, by every imaginable means, by devious legislative enactments and by force of arms, to prevent citizens of the United States from voting? It must rast record when they now attempt to disfranchise their former slaves. But we deny this. It is the argument of the 'Bloody Shirt' asses in lions' skins again.

The pledges to which we have referred form a part of that record, and they are, as we have said, both ignored and violated by the men who made them. The paroles, freely given when the rebel armies surrendered, are also a part of that record, and and obey the laws of the United States.

They were solemn oaths of allegiance, in fact, and they are also being ignored and violated. Not one of these affrighted gen-

But there must be a purpose in the violation of these pledges, in the defiance of law, and in the extreme measures which a portion of the Southern whites have adopted. What is it? Simply to gain within the Union what they failed to gain when they attempted to fight the Government outside of it. The supremacy of State Rights and the overthrow of those principles on which the Republican party relies for popular support. This they cannot accomplish by fair means because the majority of the voters of the United States ire opposed to their designs. They have onsequently resorted to foul means. In plain terms, they have begun a systematic war against law and order, against the exercise of the right of suffrage by their potlemen will dare to gainsay these facts.

These objects once accomplished-as they readily will be if the present Congress fails to do its duty by providing means for the suppression and punishment of this cal discontent which now exists; but they be more cruelly proscriptive and more basely treasonable. The Government will then be in the hands of ex-Confederates. The majority in Congress will be composed of men who represent ultra-rebel constituents. Among the questions presented by Republican Congressman, bolder than those constituents for the consideration of their representatives will be the following: 1. Pensions for their Confederate soldier constituents. 2. Payment of debts of the late Southern Confederate Government, owned and held by their constituents. 3. Payment for slaves set free by proclamation of President Lincoln, claimed by their constituents. 4. Payment for seizures and destruction ot property by the United States troops in suppressing the rebellion. 5. Repudiation of the national debt. in which their constituents have and can have no possible pride or interest.

6. Reorganization of all the Southern States on such a constitutional basis as permits of a legal disfranchisement-now attempted by force-of the blacks. It must be remembered that the heart and soul of the element in the South to which we allude is absorbingly devoted to a support of these questions, and that they would then become direct issues in the election contests, as they are indirect issues now. The citizen of the South who would then oppose a candidate for office running on a platform which included these ques tions as a bid for popular favor, would be subjected to the same wicked and rigorous impositions as the Abolitionists of ante bellum days were; would be hunted from his home; would be proscribed in every imaginable way, and would, no doubt, be murdered if he had the bravery to attempt to express his opinions in public. In short, the Slave Oligarchy would be revived with the firm backing of the Confederate army

Would the Northern people submit to this? Probably not, and before they would admit to the Presidential chair a man elected by such fraudulent means, the possibility of another sectional war would be discussed. But with the experience of the last fresh in our memories, with the load of a great public debt to carry, and with hard times upon us, how many of our people would hesitate before taking the first step to renew civil strife. Would not some other Greeley arise to say, "Let our wayward sisters depart in peace?"

> DEMOCRATIC ideas of a "government Republican in form" are fitly represented by the compromise proposition of the socalled Wiltz Legislature of Louisiana. It is treated simply as a matter of "barter and sale." It is almost incredible that Mr. Wheeler should consent to entertain such a proposition.

Do THE grave and reverend Senators at the Capitol mean to say that the resident who rents a house or a room is not entitled to a voice in the character of the streets. walks, sewerage or sanitary condition of the city, because his taxes find their way into the Treasury through his landlord's pocket ? Is this Mr. Morrill's idea?

THE ignorant, unnaturalized editor of the New York Times will probably discover in the course of time that the President sent a message to Congress regarding the Arkansas question, and then he will write some thing about it in his usual bungling way and as usual misrepresent Republican sentiment in New York and elsewhere.

AND NOW the sensational correspondents assert that the 'President's Arkansas message was written by himself-which is true -and sent to Congress without having been submitted to the Cabinet-which is a lie. Every member of the Cabinet stands by the policy announced in that message as they have individually stood by it siece it was first broached by the President more than a month ago,

THE new tariff bill should be passed as soon as possible. The proposed increase will at once be added to the prices of all the articles of consumption affected by it except whisky, which will be diluted a little more and retailed at the same prices so that the quicker the bill becomes a law and the earlier it is made to take effect the more acceptable will be the relief to the demands upon the Treasury. IN THE examination of one of the White League witnesses before the Congressional committee in New Orleans, Judge Hoar asked : "Who told you to do such things?" The witness hesitated and stammered and seemed greatly puzzled for fear he might name some other than the one he had been drilled and instructed to name. A Few Facts for Congressmen-(Reprinted by request from the editorial column of The National Republican of July 16, 1874.) THE CENTRE MARKET CASE. The decision of Judge Wylie in the minne ion case against the Centre Market Company s in full accord with public sentiment. the end there can be but little doubt that it will be found to inure to the interest of the ockholders, as well as those of the dealers and the public. In no other way can the control of merit be vested in the meritorious The good-will naturally, and we had almost said inevitably, resulting from laudable enterprise in business and source and onorable dealing upon the part of butchers and hucksters can be secured to them in no other way. The method proposed by the company would have compelled the dealers to the company for the reputation and goodill of their stands every two or three years in the shape of bonuses.

These bouness, as the judge truthfully held, would, in the end, have come out of the con-suming customers of the dealers in the shape increased prices of meats and vegetables But aside from this, the good-will of the stand, in all equity, is the rightful property of the lessee. It is his creation. The company can have no title to it. It had nothing to do with the making of it and should have no interest in If the rental of the stalls is inade ils value. If the rental of the statis is inalequate to the payment of a fair dividend upon the property, then that is a question to be decided upon its merits, and the company will find little difficulty in obtaining redress. Means for raising the rents or fixing them at a fair rate are provided by the charter. But the course pursued by the company was oner-ous, unfair and oppressive.

Just now we are especially jealous of everything smacking of monopoly, and it appears that the market company would consult its best interests by avoiding everything which might be construed into an attempt to influence control the business of their tenants. The true road of prosperity for the company is un-doubtedly that which will insure the success of the dealers. The interests of the two are identical when viewed in a proper light. They should therefore be pursued with harmony, and with particular care that neither treuches upon the vested rights of the other.

Private markets are so popular and numerous that the permanent existence of public markets is a mixed question. Their utility is doubted by many, while the marked success which has attended many of the most notable rivate enterprises of this character in Wash-ngton induces a considerable annual increase f them. It is notorious that many of the best vers of the West End rarely send their ca terers to a public market, choosing to rely upon such men as Maillard, Febrey or Jordan r their supplies.

These facts are mentioned as an admonition grave responsibilities—as grave as those to the grasping managers of the Centre market that they by no means have this cutire market business "in a sling," and that there may be danger of their splendid property in buildings and franchise seconding an empty and profitless speculation, if they are rash and foolish enough to strangle the goose that by roper nourishment would "lay the golder From the news columns of the same date ?

THE BUTCHERS TRIUMPHANT. The case of Hoffman vs. The Washington Market Company, involving the right to de-mand bosus upon the stalls in the Centre mar-ket, was decided yesterday. After argument by Mr. Merrick for the butchers, and Mr. Chandler for the Market Company, Judge Wylie said this was not the court of lust re-sort, for an appeal lies in the general term, and from there it could be taken still higher. It might have been expected, with the notice the company had, that they would have filed an answer. They had filed no answer, but instead an affidavit; but the case was before the ourt, and fairly, for the bill is a fair one. The defendant objects to the jurisdiction of the court, regarding the case as one in which the court has no more right to interfere than in an ordinary case of landlord and tenant, but this was not such a case. The right to establish markets is a sovereign right belonging to the Government itself, and, with great respect for the Government, he would say it and parted with its prerogative in this case. Congress was not, however, unmindful of its duty as to the public, and in passing this law conferring a valuable privilege on the combe plucked.

The act provides that the stalls shall be put.

up at auction and sold or leased for a term of years. If the law stopped these a purchaser years. If the law stopped these a purchaser would have had to take it for such a time. But the law goes further, and enacts that such purchasers shall have the stalls so long as they shall occupy the same in their business and pay the rent. The lessee in the first section is absolutely bound to pay the rent or bonus, and he took it with a view of paying rent, but not bonus, after the expiration of the term. This provision was a trust for the public, and for the benefit of the public. This matter is not between the company and the dealers, but be-tween the company and the public. What would be the result if this company had and exercised the right to put on bonuses every

Every man buying a piece of beef would have to pay an extra cent per pound, and five cents extra on butter and other commodities. Congress took this view of the subject, and the public owe them a debt of gratitude, for they intended to protect the public. The comthey intended to protect the public. The com-pany attempted to accomplish by private agreement, in the form of a permit, what the law did not warrant them doing, and it was an illegal arrangement. Twice the bill of the company, which would have left the public at the mercy of the company, passed the House of Representatives, and twice were the objec-tionable features stricken out in the Senate. tionable features stricken out in the Senate. The court will not allow a violation of the erty unless you enter into an agreement with us to sacrifice the public interest." The plain-tiff in this case finds himself an occupant of a stall in June, and the company gave notice that they intended to sell. But not according to the charler was this sale to be, for they in-tended to sell the choice. It was not this kind of auction that the law contemplated. Even if they had the right to hold the second auction, they had no right to sell the choice of stalls, for the occupants at the previous sale had a title in them. It was an unfortunate ircumstance for the public that this misusierstanding had taken place.

The object of the corporation is to make money, and when a company have a grant bordering on sovereignty itself it must be care-fully watched. The stall of complainant in this case was about to be put up for sale, and his good-will in it about to be sacrificed se presented a well-settled ground for equity risdiction, and he would order the injunc-

To the Editor of the Nutronal Republican: Sin: 1 am pleased to see that you appreciate the "growing intelligence of the unnaturalised Jennings," of the New York Times and think Jennings, of the chitorial column to-day con-cerning his personal abuse of the Hon T. C. Platt, M. C., of New York, quite pertinent. In Platt, M. C., of New York, quite periment. In the beginning of the last campaign it was the beast of Jennings that through the influence of the Times Mr. Platt should be defeated, and he worked for this result. Among the other good deeds which thus draws the abuse of Jennings is his manily stans in favor of the country press. He favored their transmission free through the mails in the county where published, and array it both in the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads of which he is an able member, and on the floor. in the Committee on Fost Offices and Post Road of which he is an able member, and on the fior The passage of this law interfered, to a great of tent, with the circulation of the Times, especial in Mr. Platt's district, which is an intellige one, and hence the continuation of the "person abuse."

As you naively remark, Mr. Plati's constituer did have something to say about it, for they re-turned him to the next Congress in spite of Jen-nings and the fact that a very strong and popular Liberal Republican ran against him. Mr. Platt led his ticket by several hundred, such is his popularity at home, where he is well known. It would seem in these latter days that to draw the personal abuse of Jennings is one of the best means to insure success.
